SUMMARY

I build startup marketing from the ground up: the team, the systems, the positioning, and the revenue engine. As a CMO and CMPO across healthtech, fintech, martech, and legal, I've owned the full stack, from rebrands and category shifts to GTM, demand, and product marketing.

I'm a builder by instinct, happiest as the first or founding marketer. That runs through my own ventures too: I co-founded What's Happening Addis (Ethiopia's largest online community, 0 to 169k) and, more recently, Pioneerly, an AI-native growth firm for the legal sector.

Right now I'm Semble's first Senior Customer Marketing Manager, a deliberate move to go deep on customer and community after years of running marketing top-to-bottom. A background in the charity sector and international development keeps pulling me back to purpose-driven work.
